

Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars

Mexico Institute

Please join the Mexico Institute for the launch of its new report
The United States and Mexico: Towards a Strategic Partnership with

Ambassador Jeffrey Davidow

President, Institute of the Americas; former Assistant Secretary of State and former U.S. Ambassador to Mexico

Governor Lázaro Cárdenas Batel

Public Policy Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson Center and former Governor of Michoacán, Mexico

Dr. Denise Dresser

Professor, Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México and columnist, Reforma and Proceso

Andres Martinez

Director, Bernard L. Schwartz Fellows Program, New America Foundation and former Editorial Page Editor, The Los Angeles Times

Moderated by: Ginger Thompson

National Correspondent and former Mexico City Bureau Chief, The New York Times

.....
Friday, February 6th, 2009
9:00-10:30am
6th Floor Flom Auditorium
Woodrow Wilson Center
1300 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W.
Washington, D.C.
.....

There are few relationships that matter more to the United States—if any—than that with Mexico. The two countries share more than a border—they are bound together by shared challenges for the prosperity, security, and well-being of their citizens. As the United States seeks to redefine its role in the world, it is vital to start at home, with our neighbors.

The Woodrow Wilson Center is proud to present its new report, The United States and Mexico: Towards a Strategic Partnership, which looks at practical policy options in security cooperation, economic integration, immigration, and border management for forging a better relationship with Mexico.

Please RSVP to Katie Putnam at mexico@wilsoncenter.org or (202) 691-4399.

An overview of the report can found on the Mexico Portal at wilsoncenter.org/mexicoportal.

This event will be webcast live at wilsoncenter.org/mexico.