THE WOODROW WILSON INTERNATIONAL CENTER FOR SCHOLARS

Established by Congress in 1968 and headquartered in Washington, D.C., the Woodrow Wilson Center is a living national memorial to President Wilson. The Center's mission is to commemorate the ideals and concerns of Woodrow Wilson by providing a link between the worlds of ideas and policy, while fostering research, study, discussion, and collaboration among a broad spectrum of individuals concerned with policy and scholarship in national and international affairs. Supported by public and private funds, the Center is a nonpartisan institution engaged in the study of national and world affairs. It establishes and maintains a neutral forum for free, open, and informed dialogue. Conclusions or opinions expressed in Center's publications and programs are those of the authors and speakers and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Center staff, fellows, trustees, advisory groups, or any individuals or organizations that provide financial support to the Center.

The Center is the publisher of The Wilson Quarterly and home of the Woodrow Wilson Center Press, dialogue radio and television, and the monthly newsletter "Centerpoint." For more information about the Center's activities and publications, please visit us on the web at www.wilsoncenter.org.

THE WOODROW WILSON AWARDS

With the Woodrow Wilson Awards, the Center recognizes leaders in business and public service from across the United States and around the world. Recipients share President Wilson's vision of improving our policies and institutions through enlightened and deliberate dialogue and stand as living testaments to what may be accomplished when the worlds of learning, public affairs, and business come together in common interest.

*"My hope for Russia is to see it an independent, strong nation
with good ideas of democracy and kindness toward its people.
Toward that end, we need institutions like the Kennan Institute that help build and maintain dialogue between our two countries and our two peoples..."*
