Established in 1991 at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington, D.C., the Cold War International History Project is the leading research project on Cold War history. CWIHP's global network of individuals, institutions, and projects is committed to the joint exploration of new sources and interpretations. The Project's activities include a publications series (in collaboration with major university presses); annotated archival sources; an international fellowship program; educational outreach to American high school students; and award-winning international scholarly meetings, conferences, and seminars. For their generous support CWIHP thanks the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, the Henry Luce Foundation, the Andrew Mellon Foundation, the Korea Foundation, as well as private individuals. Donations to the project are most welcome and, like all contributions to the Wilson Center, are tax-deductible.
