

The Mexico Institute at the Woodrow Wilson Center invites you to:

“Renewing the Partnership between the United States and Mexico: Shared Responsibility and Shared Strategies”

June 8, 2009

3:00-6:00 pm

6th Floor Flom Auditorium

Woodrow Wilson Center

3:00 pm

Opening Roundtable: Where is the US-Mexico Relationship Today?

Arturo Sarukhan, Ambassador of Mexico

José Antonio Fernández, Chair and CEO, FEMSA and Co-Chair, Mexico Institute

Roger Wallace, Vice President, Pioneer Natural Resources and Co-Chair, Mexico Institute

Moderator: Andrew Selee, Director, Mexico Institute

3:40 pm

Roundtable Discussion: Has the US-Mexico Relationship Changed Qualitatively?

Carlos Heredia, Researcher, CIDE and former Congressman

Jim Kolbe, Senior Advisor, McLarty Associates and former Congressman

Jim Jones, President, Manatt Jones and former Ambassador to Mexico and Congressman

Andrés Rozental, President, Rozental y Asociados and former Deputy Foreign Minister

Javier Treviño, Vice President, Cemex and former Deputy Secretary of the Treasury

Moderator: Philip Bennett, Senior Advisor, Washington Post Group and former Managing Editor,
Washington Post

4:50 pm

Roundtable Discussion: What's Next?

Roderic Ai Camp, McKenna Professor of the Pacific Rim, Claremont McKenna College

Rossana Fuentes-Berain, Vice President, Grupo Editorial Expansión

Susan Kaufman Purcell, Director, Center for Hemispheric Policy, University of Miami

Diana Negroponte, Non-Resident Senior Fellow, Brookings Institution

Peter Smith, Simon Bolívar Professor of Latin American Studies, UCSD

Moderator: Raúl Rodríguez Barocio, Chair, North American Center for Transborder Studies, Arizona
State University and former Director, NADBank

6:00 pm

Adjournment

Please RSVP to Katie Putnam at mexico@wilsoncenter.org.