

The Woodrow Wilson Center Mexico Institute and the Good Neighbor Environmental Board invite you to attend the presentation of the report:

A Blueprint for Action on the U.S.-Mexico Border

Thursday, June 17, 2010

Woodrow Wilson Center

3:00-5:30 p.m.

Fifth-floor conference room

Reception to follow

Responding to a charge set by the Council on Environmental Quality, the report includes actionable recommendations on a range of environmental issues facing the U.S.-Mexico border region, including climate change adaptation, renewable energy development, and emergency response and management. Representatives from the U.S. and Mexican federal governments, as well as from U.S. border states and counties, will lend their perspectives on these and other issues and discuss collaborative solutions among regional, federal, and binational stakeholders. Copies of the report will be available.

For directions to the Center, please click here.

For more information, contact Robert Donnelly, program associate, Woodrow Wilson Center Mexico Institute, at robert.donnelly@wilsoncenter.org or by calling (202) 691-4050.

To RSVP, please send an email to mexico@wilsoncenter.org.
