

Woodrow Wilson International Center
for Scholars
Brazil Institute

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

The Brazil Institute, Mexico Institute, and Latin American Program, Comparative Urban Studies Project, Environmental Change and Security Program of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars and the Bureau for Latin America and the Caribbean of the U.S. Agency for International Development

Invite you to a discussion on

Emerging Trends in Environment and Economic Growth in Latin America and the Caribbean

Thursday, July 22, 2010 – 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.
Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars
6th Floor Flom Auditorium

RSVP to: james.hodges@wilsoncenter.org

Speakers: Paulo Sotero, Director, Brazil Institute, Wilson Center; Anne Dix, Environment Team Leader, Bureau for Latin America and the Caribbean, USAID; Julie L. Kunen, Senior Advisor, Bureau of Policy, Planning, and Learning, USAID; Christine Pendzich, Technical Adviser on Climate Change and Clean Energy, USAID; Eric Olson, Senior Adviser, Mexico Institute; Blair A. Ruble, Chair, Comparative Urban Studies Project, Wilson Center; Judith Morrison, Senior Adviser, Social Sector, Gender and Diversity Unit, Inter-American Development Bank; Maria Carmen Lemos, Associate Professor, Natural Resources and Environment, University of Michigan;

With the purpose of identifying key trends likely to shape the economy and natural environment in Latin America and the Caribbean for the next 10 years, the United States Agency for International Development partnered with the Brazil Institute of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars to carry out an expert analysis of emerging issues and opportunities in environment and economic growth during the winter and spring of 2010. On July 22, the project leaders will present the final trend analysis that was developed on basis of the knowledge and understanding gained in six workshops in Washington and a regional meeting in Panama coordinated by the Brazil Institute on behalf of the Latin American Program.

For more information on the Brazil Institute, visit www.wilsoncenter.org/brazil
Woodrow Wilson Center – 1300 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W. - Washington, DC 20004-3027

For more information on USAID, visit www.usaid.gov
Ronald Reagan Building- Washington, D.C. 20523-1000