Dear Colleague:

The Latin American Program of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars invites you to a seminar on:

Contemporary U.S.-Latin American Relations:
Cooperation or Conflict in the 21st Century?

Monday, June 28, 2010

4:00 p.m. – 5:30 p.m.

Sixth Floor Auditorium

Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars

1300 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.

Why are U.S.-Latin American relations changing? How have broad transformations in the international system, such as issues of politics and economics, the securitization of U.S. foreign policy, the wider impact of the world beyond the Americas, and the complexities of relationships between neighbors significantly affected in the Western Hemisphere? Reflecting on Latin American countries' relations and themes with the United States will be the co-editor of the just-published book, Contemporary U.S.-Latin American Relations: Cooperation or Conflict in the 21st Century?, Jorge I. Domínguez, of Harvard University. The dialogue will also feature co-authors of the chapters on Venezuela, Peru, and Colombia, Javier Corrales, Amherst College, Cynthia McClintock, The George Washington University, and Cynthia Arnson, Woodrow Wilson Center.

We hope you will join us for this important discussion. Please RSVP, acceptances only, to lap@wilsoncenter.org.

Sincerely,
