

CHINA ENVIRONMENT FORUM

Greening Business in China July 11, 2008

YE WEIJIA

As the New Ventures China Director, Ye Weijia responsible for the program's activities in China. He has over twenty years of business experience working for American, Chinese, and European corporations in the areas of engineering, production, business development, marketing and sales, and general management. Prior to joining New Ventures, Ye Weijia was the Asia Pacific Marketing and Sales Director for Corus' Aluminum Division and General Manager of the Division's China plant. He also held senior posts at PPG Industries and ADK Research, including several placements in the United States. Ye Weijia holds masters degrees in Industrial Engineering and Policy Analysis from Pittsburgh University, and a bachelors degree in Electrical Engineering from the Beijing College for Electrical Engineering.

TERRY YOSIE

Terry F. Yosie joined the World Environment Center (WEC) in October 2006 as the President & CEO. In this capacity, he develops and implements strategies to achieve this non-profit, non-advocacy organization's mission to advance sustainable development through the business operations of WEC member companies and in partnership with government agencies, non-governmental organizations, universities and other stakeholders. Dr. Yosie has held senior level positions in government, corporate and consulting organizations the American Chemistry Council, Ruder Finn, the American Petroleum Institute, and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Science Advisory Board. He is a member of the Committee on Improving Risk Assessment at the National Academy of Sciences and also a consultant with the EPA Science Advisory Board. He is the author of more than fifty professional publications and co-editor of a book entitled, Sustainable Environmental Management. He received his doctorate degree in humanities and social sciences from Carnegie Mellon University in 1981.