

Labor market integration within the NAFTA region: beyond the migration rhetoric

Miguel Jimenez

August, 2013

I. SCOPE AND REASONS FOR THE RESEARCH

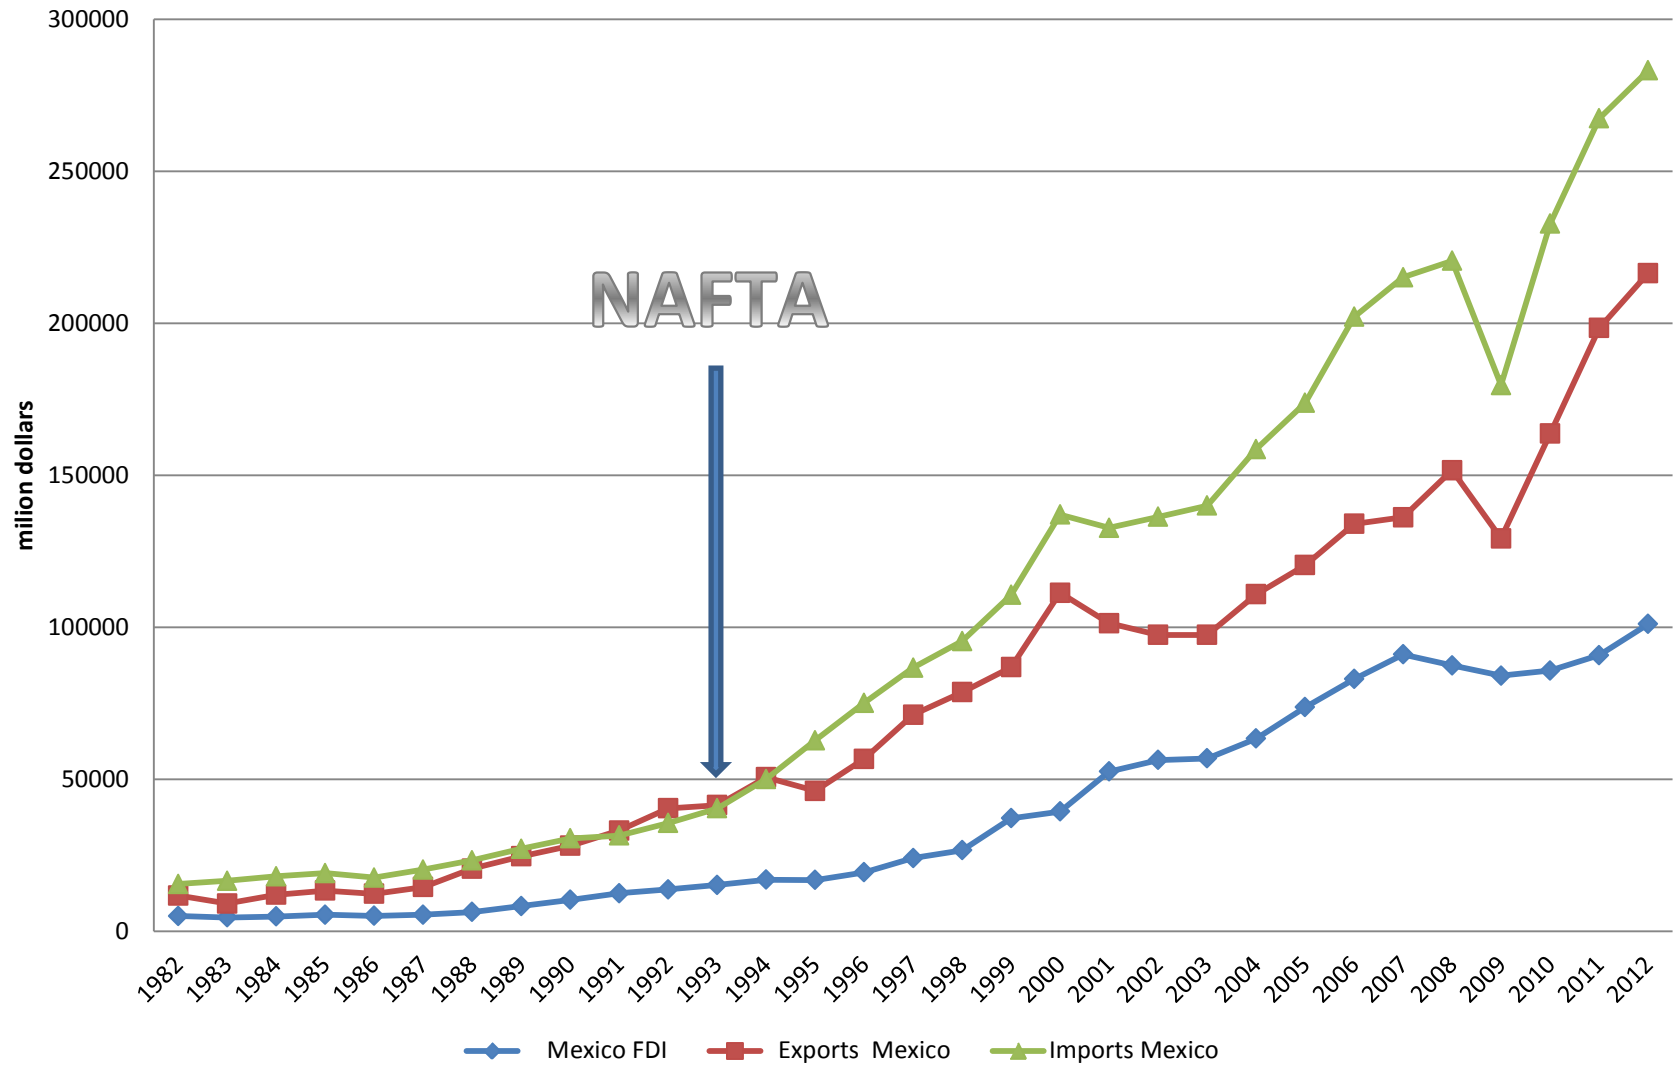

1. Free Trade Agreement and Migration debate over the 1990s: the challenges ahead

- a) US. Increase unwanted migration.
- b) De-industrialization as has happened in Europe, traditional manufacturing cities and regions.
- b) Canada increase the “brain drain”
- c) Mexico: Mexican Industrial Sectors hit by price-quality competition

Factors to consider affecting migration:

- ✓ Push-pull factor, the availability of jobs in the US
- ✓ Labor market government interventions vs lesser faire
- EU -Schengen
- ✓ Trade and Investment,
- ✓ Economic growth rates, total work force, unemployment,
- ✓ Demography.

Conclusions

- System Works
- TNC Trade Theory now prevails
- Legal migration has increased and claims of spite of total migration has decreased
- Qualitative Change of migration: High skills
- Legal Framework. Mexico NO-privileges
 - ✓ Visa Waiver program
 - ✓ Canada Bermuda Exceptions
 - ✓ NAFTA Visa, is Mexico Visa

Policy Recommendation Mexican Government

- ✓ To gain more access on H1B visas by No Caps to Mexican in H, and L visas for Mexicans as it is on TN
- ✓ Visa Waiver program, Canada Bermuda Exceptions along with enforcement.

“bolster work programs to facilitate the entry of both high- and low skilled workers”

- ✓ Benefits. Disincentives to illegal crossings, experience demonstrate that the tougher the measures the more likely the immigrants to remain.
- ✓ Better knowledge of foreign nationals whereabouts, more security.
- ✓ More efficient Labor Market allocation
- ✓ Obama initiative 100K Strong in the Americas
- ✓ Brasil, no other Latin American Country has taken advantage of this program.
