As you may or may not know, the federal government is the only entity with the resources to be able to insure or guarantee loans for "thirty year mortgages." If the federal government removed itself from mortgage finance, homebuyers would not be able to get a thirty year mortgage, and would only be able to get a fifteen year mortgage or an ARM, or adjustable rate mortgage which would increase the cost of a home loan. Knowing this –

Would you favor or oppose the federal government removing itself from mortgage finance, if you knew that it would mean the cost of a home loan would increase and thirty year mortgages would no longer be available?
