Contents

List of Tables ............................................................................................................. vii

List of Figures ........................................................................................................... viii

Acknowledgments ...................................................................................................... xi

Mykhailo Minakov, Georgiy Kasianov, Matthew Rojansky
Introduction: From “the Ukraine” to “Ukraine” ................................................... 1

Serhiy Kudelia and Georgiy Kasianov
Chapter 1 Ukraine’s Political Development after Independence..................... 9

Tymofiy Mylovanov and Ilona Sologoub
Chapter 2 The Development of Ukraine’s Private Sector ............................. 53

Yuliya Yurchenko, Pavlo Kutuev, Maksym Yenin, Hennadii Korzhov
Chapter 3 Class Divisions and Social Inequality in Independent Ukraine...................... 95

Margarita Balmaceda and Andrian Prokip
Chapter 4 The Development of Ukraine’s Energy Sector ............................. 137

Diana Dutsyk and Marta Dyczok
Chapter 5 Ukraine’s Media: A Field Where Power Is Contested................... 169

Oksana Barshynova and Olena Martynyuk
Chapter 6 Ukrainian Art of the Independence Era: Transitions and Aspirations.......................................................... 207

Tymofii Brik and José Casanova
Chapter 7 Thirty Years of Religious Pluralism in Ukraine ......................... 249

Oksana Mikheieva and Oxana Shevel
Chapter 8 The Development of National Identities in Ukraine .................. 283

Mykhailo Minakov and Matthew Rojansky
Chapter 9 Democracy in Ukraine ....................................................................... 321

Contributors ............................................................................................................. 359

Index ......................................................................................................................... 367
List of Tables

Table 1.1. Share of voters participating in presidential and parliamentary elections, 1991–2019 (%) ........................ 32
Table 2.1. Number of enterprises sold by various methods, 1993–2005 ................................................................. 69
Table 2.2. Number of enterprises privatized during 1992–2017 .................................................................................... 74
Table 2.3. Output and employment structure in Ukraine, 2001–2018 (%) ............................................................................. 78
Table 3.1. Respondents’ opinions on the importance of various factors for getting ahead in life, 2009 ......................... 116
Table 3.2. Public assessment of fairness of the difference in income, wealth, and wage formation in Ukraine, 2019 (%) ........................................................................................................................................... 118
Table 3.3. Ukrainians’ perception of the type of society they live in and the type they want to live in (%) ...................... 120
Table 7.1. Percentage of respondents who identify with any religious group, by macroregion, 1992–2018 .............. 253
Table 7.2. Church service attendance during the past week, Ukraine overall, 1994–2018 (%) ........................................ 254
Table 7.3. Religious (active) communities in Ukraine, 1993–2019 ....................................................................................... 263
Table 7.4. Results of the fixed effect models, 1992–2018 .......... 272
List of Figures

Figure 2.1. Exchange rate and the National Bank of Ukraine reserves .................................................. 60
Figure 2.2. Balance of trust in various institutions in Ukraine......................................................... 64
Figure 2.3. Share of small and microfirms in total employment by sector, 2017 ................................................................. 77
Figure 2.4. Privatization of apartment units and individual houses in Ukraine, 1993–2005 ......................... 82
Figure 2.5. Number of banks operating in Ukraine, by ownership, 1997–2019................................................................. 87
Figure 3.1. Top 100 companies in Ukraine’s market in 2010, by form of ownership and country where domiciled ... 105
Figure 3.2. Ukrainian corporate business groups’ ownership of Ukraine’s 45 biggest companies, 2010............... 106
Figure 3.3. Gross national income per capita in PPP (current - USD), Ukraine, 1990–2018 .................................................. 111
Figure 3.4. Survey respondents’ self-assessment of their economic position .................................................. 114
Figure 3.5. Visualization of social inequality: Types of society... 119
Figure 3.6. Responses to the statement “Incomes should be made more equal. We need larger income differences as incentives for individual effort,” 2005 and - 2011 (%) ................................................................. 122
Figure 3.7. Ukraine’s public attitudes toward significant social stratification (rich-poor, upper-lower strata of society) (%)........................................................................................................... 127
Figure 3.8. People’s attitudes toward creating equal opportunities for all in Ukraine (%)................................. 128
Figure 4.1. Energy balance of Ukraine, 2017: TPES and final energy consumption................................................. 138
Figure 4.2. Total primary energy supply by source in Ukraine, 1990–2016 ......................................................... 139
Figure 4.3. Implementation of European Energy Community obligations and commitments by Ukraine by mid- 2020 ........................................................................................................ 160
Figure 7.1. Unemployment and religiosity in Ukraine’s macroregions, 1992–2018 ............................................................ 259
Figure 7.2. Ukrainian language and religiosity in Ukraine’s macroregions, 1992–2018 ............................................................ 261
Figure 8.1. Survey respondents’ nationality distribution according to IS NASU, 1992–2010 (%) ........................................... 295
Figure 8.2. Self-perception of respondents who declared their nationality to be “Ukrainian” or “Russian,” Lviv, 1994 and 2004 (%) ........................................................................................................................................... 297
Figure 8.3. Self-perception of respondents who declared their nationality to be “Ukrainian” or “Russian,” Donetsk, 1994 and 2004 (%) ........................................................................................................................................... 297
Figure 8.4. Hierarchy of identities of residents of Ukraine, 2010 and 2015 (%) ........................................................................................................................................... 300
Figure 8.5. Which qualities should one have to be a true Ukrainian? Donetsk, 2010 and 2015 (%) ........................................................................................................................................... 302
Figure 9.1. Political and civic freedoms in Ukraine compared to Belarus and Moldova, 1991–2020 .................................................. 340
Acknowledgments

This book was inspired by the research and discussions of the Ukrainian, American and international scholars who have worked at the Woodrow Wilson Center’s Kennan Institute over the past twenty years. We appreciate their creativity, professionalism, and enthusiasm for our project and this publication. Indeed, the contributors to this volume, to whom we are eternally grateful, reflect the diversity and quality of scholars who have come to the Kennan Institute to advance their research on Ukraine over many decades.

We also thank the Wilson Center’s director, president, and CEO, Jane Harman, the senior executive leadership of the Center, and the Board of Trustees for their ongoing support of high-quality scholarship on Ukraine, US-Ukrainian relations, and the wider region. We are certain that this volume showcases the deep regional expertise for which the Wilson Center has been recognized by its peers as number one in the world.

We especially thank Marjorie Pannell and Kiley McCormick for making the language of this book clear and accessible. The majority of the contributors to this book use English professionally but are not native speakers. Thus it is thanks to Marjorie’s and Kiley’s skillful editing that this volume has come together as a consistent and appealing whole.

Last but not least, we highly appreciate the steadfast support and wise counsel of the Kennan Institute staff, including Izabella Tabarovsky, William Pomeranz, Joseph Dresen, Mattison Brady, Morgan Jacobs, Jemile Safaraliyeva, Victoria Pardini, and Cindy Garcia. Without their efforts this project could never have been realized.

Mykhailo Minakov, Kyiv, Ukraine
Georgiy Kasianov, Kyiv, Ukraine
Matthew Rojansky, Washington, D.C.
Introduction: From “the Ukraine” to “Ukraine”

Mykhailo Minakov, Georgiy Kasianov, and Matthew Rojansky

Ukraine as an independent state emerged in 1990–1992 as political processes, both destructive and creative, unfolded across what was once the Soviet Union and gave birth to many new nations. In the eyes of at least some Western observers, the Ukrainians were an “unexpected” nation (Wilson, 2015, pp. 2ff). Territorially the largest, most industrially developed, and most populous European state among the former Soviet republics in 1991, Ukraine entered international politics humbly but with growing visibility and greater comfort in exercising its newfound sovereignty. In 2021, Ukraine is a far more developed nation—highly resilient, dynamic at home, and active internationally—and yet is still beset by constraints and challenges that would be familiar to any observer of the country’s move toward independence thirty years ago.

Ukraine emerged as an independent political entity in the context of the third wave of democratization, a period from the 1970s to the late 1980s in which nation-state projects grew and developed, including among the peoples of the Soviet Union (Åberg & Sandberg, 2017; Huntington, 1993). In many ways, this global process combined state-building with the choice of a free society, democratic politics, and a free market economy. Like many other post-Soviet nations, independent Ukraine was founded on a commitment to liberal principles, including individual rights, competitive elections, and the participation of citizens in decision-making, all of which broke from the Soviet political norm (Brunkert, Kruse, & Welzel, 2018; Jaggers & Gurr, 1995).

Over the past thirty years, the Ukrainian political system has followed a more classically “Western” model of democratic development through the distribution of authority among three branches of power and between central and local governments, as well as through competitive elections. Decommunization and democratization during the 1990s established Ukraine’s political system within the newly sovereign state. However, in the twenty-first century, the fundamentals of that system faced attempts by external actors to establish control, freedom confronted competitive authoritarianism, and constitutional democracy collided with the continuing dominance of oligarchic clans (Hale, 2014; Way, 2015). Meanwhile, civil society was constrained by the powerful state bureaucracy, freedom of speech by large-scale media manipulations, and participatory citizenship by fake democracy and imitative reforms.

Ukrainian studies in the West has developed into a recognized research field, expanding from language, literature, and history to political science, sociology, political economy, culture, religious studies, social anthropology, and so on. Research on Ukraine has attracted scholars of many different ethnic and civic origins and is of rising interest for policy experts as well as the media. Not surprisingly, the increase in scholarly interest devoted to Ukraine has occurred most notably after pivotal events in the country. Judging by data in the catalogue of the Library of Congress, academic publications on Ukraine almost doubled annually in the periods of 2005–2011 and 2014–2019. Both of these time periods followed revolutionary changes that aimed to push back against corrupt and authoritarian Ukrainian governments. Whatever the cause, Ukraine’s society, culture, and politics have become familiar to scholars thanks to many books and articles, academic and popular, including, among others, Ukraine: A History, by Orest Subtelny ([1988] 2009); “Does Ukraine Have a History?,” by Marc von Hagen (1995); Post-Communist Ukraine, by Bohdan Harasymiv (2002); The Ukrainians: Unexpected Nation, by Andrew Wilson (2015); Ukraine 1991–2007 (Ukraine in 1991–2007), by Georgiy Kasianov (2008); A History of Ukraine, by Paul Robert Magocsi (2010); and The Gates of Europe: A History of Ukraine, by Serhiy Plokhy (2015).

The year 1991 marked not only the emergence of Ukraine as a sovereign state on the map of Europe but also the accelerated evolution of the society, culture, and psychology of some 50 million people who lived there. Ukrainians experienced rapid social, political, and cultural changes, battles over political and economic freedom, the abandonment of Soviet-era illusions about equality for the often merciless elitism of post-Soviet capitalism, the quest for solidarity around history and national identity, and much more. All these experiences contributed to the transformation of Soviet Ukrainians into a new Eastern European society, with all its virtues and vices.

In this book, we aim to present the contemporary history of the people of Ukraine. Ukrainians deserve a contemporary history that follows their own expression not only through politics but also in private entrepreneurship, art, religion, and self-imagination. Accordingly, the chapters that follow cover thirty years of Ukraine’s development in the fields of politics, economics, energy, society, media, contemporary art, religion, national identity, and democracy.

One of our major tasks was to find a meeting point for the perspectives of Ukrainian and Western scholars on this three-decade story of contemporary Ukraine. For this reason, each chapter was co-written by authors from Western and Ukrainian universities and research institutions in what was often a time-consuming and complex interaction. Additionally, each chapter was written in an atttempt to blend academic depth and rigor with accessibility to a wider, not only academic, readership. We hope that readers will agree that the result was worth the effort.

Serhiy Kudelia and Georgiy Kasianov launch the book with a chapter on Ukraine’s political history. They describe the establishment of the Ukrainian state with its specific political system, political culture, and major political groups. The authors analyze how the trajectory of Ukraine’s path moved from affirming core state in-itutions to the crisis of 2014 that took it to the verge of collapse, and then to a new political self-affirmation. Their analysis deals with both the institutional and personal dimensions of this trajectory. They look at Ukraine as a distinct post-Soviet case in which political openness and competition have brought six presidents and eight parliaments to power, brought about two “revolutions,” and—both because of and in spite of this—were unable to overcome corruption in the public sphere and establish a full rule of law.
Chapter 1 ends with an analysis of the armed conflict in Ukraine and its consequences for the country’s sovereignty, human security, and current politics.
In chapter 2, Tymofiy Mylovanov and Ilona Sologoub present a story of the reinvention and reintroduction of the private sector after its retreat during the Soviet period. Even though in the early 1990s Ukraine possessed a large-scale economy and developed industry, its private sector was minimal. Thus privatization was more than just an economic process: it changed the very logic of individual and collective behavior, the distribution of power and wealth, and the potential for and limits of development. The authors focus on the unity and contradiction of the aim of creating a powerful private sector and the reality of its delay, and how it influenced Ukraine’s humble economic development and the economic powers of the government. The history of the private sector is a saga of endless, and so far mainly futile, attempts at creating an economy that would be a supportive sphere for human creativity and entrepreneurship.

Significant inequality and the reemergence of endemic poverty and remarkable wealth, a common theme across post-Soviet societies, are also part of the history of contemporary Ukraine. In chapter 3, Yuliya Yurchenko, Pavlo Kutuev, Maksym Yenin, and Hennadii Korzhov examine how Ukrainians grew rich and poor and how inequality became a structural issue for the nation. If chapter 2 was written from a neoliberal perspective, the authors of chapter 3 consider the social transition of Ukraine from the left. They show that Ukraine’s contemporary development was driven by growing social differentiation and snowballing conflicts between the have and have-nots.

The history of a country’s energy sector is usually seen as part of its larger economic history. However, in the case of Ukraine, it is also part of the chronicle of the country’s pursuit of greater independence. In chapter 4, Margarita Balmaceda and Andrian Prokip trace the development of Ukraine’s “energy sovereignty” over the past three decades. They divide their story into three periods: an early period of dependency (1991–2009), a period of forced independence (2009–2014), and the current period of ongoing conflict (2014–present). The authors also review how Ukraine began to lose its traditional role as the bridge between East and West, a role it fulfilled through its transit of gas and oil, as well as the emergence and decline of oligarchic power in the sector. In a way, this chapter shows how Ukraine became part of a wider geopolitical energy contest, and how that contest has influenced Ukraine’s politics, society, and economy.

In chapter 5, Diana Dutschyk and Marta Dyczok provide a historical overview of the evolution of Ukrainian mass media into the fourth branch of power and the influence of the media on the country’s social and political development. Tracing the path of the media sector’s transformation from a Soviet propaganda tool into a democratic and oligarchic instrument, the authors demonstrate that behind the ever-changing media landscape there occurred an evolution in Ukraine’s political identity. The contest for the right to shape the understanding of what it means to be Ukrainian has framed the sector’s development.

In chapter 6, Oksana Barshynova and Olena Martynyuk tell a mesmerizing story of Ukrainians’ self-expression and creativity in contemporary art. The tale reveals the same quest as in other niveaus—the quest for individual and for small- and large-group identities, for pushing the limits of freedom, for understanding the meaning of being together—but with fewer restrictions and with much greater expressivity. Their narrative divides the history of contemporary Ukraine into two stages: the period of laying ground for new art institutions, including galleries and art centers, when art and artists were somewhat invisible to wider audiences inside and outside the country, and the period when contemporary art became influential, public, and performative. The dividing line between these periods came in 2004, when the Orange Revolution gave rise to critical art engaging a wide range of audiences. The focus of this chapter is on contemporary art as a socially significant practice that gives voice to different individuals, groups, and ideas in Ukraine.

Another important area of Ukraine’s development was religion, covered in chapter 7. Starting from the new tolerance period in a mainly atheist society of the early 1990s, Ukrainians went through a number of stages leading to the spread of religious belief and confessional self-identification. Tymofii Brik and José Casanova describe the experience of several generations of post-Soviet Ukrainians in rediscovering religion and faith. This religious revival included the shaping of new religious identities, often manifested by attending church, believing in God, trusting in the church, and losing trust in science. These changes also tested Ukraine’s adherence to pluralism and tolerance. Kyiv has become a city hosting “three Romes”: the Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church, associated with the First Rome, the new Orthodox Church of Ukraine, associated with the Second Rome (Istanbul or Byzantium), and the Ukrainian Orthodox Church of the Moscow Patriarchate, associated with the Third Rome.

In chapter 8, Oksana Mikheieva and Oxana Shevel attempt to describe the evolution of Ukrainians’ identities using data collected over three decades. The authors demonstrate how fluid, situational, and evolving these identities were. The independence of the Ukrainian state did not translate into the immediate formation of the Ukrainian citizen. National awakening, the rewriting of official histories, the introduction of a national currency, and state-building were crowded out by socioeconomic crises and nostalgia for the USSR in the 1990s. But with time, civic unity emerged from the populace’s common fate, transcending the Soviet category of “nationality” and the post-Soviet idea of ethnolinguistic division. The Euromaidan, the annexation of Crimea, and the war in the Donbas indeed added to the growth of declarative Ukrainian national identity. However, the authors show that such declaration “is little more than a situational compromise.” The path to a political nation in Ukraine still lies ahead.

In chapter 9, co-editors Mykhailo Minakov and Matthew Rojansky reflect on and summarize the path that Ukraine’s diverse society has taken in the years from 1991 to 2021. Looking at Ukraine’s experience through the lens of democracy, the authors trace the practices, ideas, and values that led to the establishment of nominal democratic institutions despite the oligarch-controlled distribution of real power and resources. These driving forces reveal dichotomies embedded in the foundations of independent Ukraine: presidentialism versus parliamentarianism, centralization versus local self-governance, democracy versus clan politics, and civic unity versus ethnolinguistic and regional divides. Put together, contradictions among these forces gave rise to two revolutionary cycles seeking greater freedom and democratization; the same contradictions ultimately undermined revolutionary aims and enabled rising authoritarianism. The chapter—and the book—concludes with a vital but open question: which path will contemporary Ukraine chose, now that its democracy is hostage to an ongoing war with Russia and still fragile socioeconomic development?

The future is undefined, for better or for worse. But as this book shows, the path taken by Ukrainians over three decades has proved their resiliency in the face of challenges at home and from abroad. By helping to make this history accessible to Ukrainians and Western observers alike, we hope to make our own contribution to Ukraine’s future.

References

Margarita Balmaceda is professor of diplomacy and international relations at Seton Hall University and an associate at the Harvard Ukrainian Research Institute. Her research focuses on the connections between natural resources, international relationships, and political development; her special expertise is in energy politics, steel, and the metallurgical sector in Ukraine, the former USSR, and the EU. Her recent books include The Politics of Energy Dependency: Ukraine, Belarus and Lithuania Between Domestic Oligarchs and Russian Pressure (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2013), Living the High Life in Minsk: Russian Energy Rents, Domestic Populism and Belarus’ Impending Crisis (Budapest: CEU Press, 2014), and Energy Dependency, Politics and Corruption in the Former Soviet Union (London: Routledge, 2008).

Oksana Barshynova, deputy director of the National Art Museum of Ukraine, is an art historian, curator, and researcher studying contemporary art and the history of Ukrainian art in the second half of the twentieth century and the early twenty-first century. She is codeveloper of the new concept for exhibiting modern and contemporary art at NAMU and the author of many articles on the history of Ukrainian art.

Tymofii Brik is assistant professor of policy research at the Kyiv School of Economics, a Fulbright Visiting Scholar at New York University, and a Visiting Vucinich Fellow at the Stanford Center for Russian, East European and Eurasian Studies. He is also an editor at Vox Ukraine and a board member of CEDOS. Tymofii’s paper on religious supply in Ukraine, published in the Sociology of Religion journal, won him an award for “Best young sociologist in Ukraine in 2018.” His recent studies on the sociology of religion appeared as chapters in compilations published by Palgrave Macmillan and Routledge.

José Casanova, a world-renowned sociologist of religion, is a senior fellow at the Berkley Center for Religion, Peace, and World Affairs, and emeritus professor of sociology and theology and religious studies at Georgetown University. From 1987 to 2007 he served as professor of sociology at the New School for Social Research, New York. His book, Public Religions in the Modern World (University of Chicago Press, 1994), has become a modern classic and has been translated into many languages, including Japanese, Arabic, and Turkish. He is also the author of Genealogías de la secularización (Barcelona: Anthropos, 2012), Beyond Secularization (in Ukrainian; Kyiv: Dukh I Litera, 2017), and Global Religious and Secular Dynamics (Brill, 2019); recently, he co-edited The Jesuits and Globalization (Georgetown University Press, 2016) and Islam, Gender and Democracy in Comparative Perspective (Oxford University Press, 2017).

Diana Dutsyk is executive director of the Ukrainian Media and Communication Institute and a senior lecturer in the School of Journalism, National University of Kyiv–Mohyla Academy. She has twenty-seven years of professional experience in journalism and has worked as editor-in-chief of a number of print and online media, including Glavred Media LLC, the website PiK Ukraine, the weekly newspaper Bez tsenzury, and the daily newspaper Ukraine Moloda. She has also served as executive director of Detector Media (2014–2017), as a member of the Advisory Board of the Ministry for Temporarily Occupied Territories and Internally Displaced Persons of Ukraine (2018–2019), and as a member of the Commission on Journalism Ethics (since 2020). Her recent publications include How to Teach Conflict Journalism (Kyiv, 2019), The ABC for Terminology in Armed Conflicts (Kyiv, 2019), and News Literacy (Kyiv, 2017), as well as numerous analytical publications on political influences on Ukrainian mass media, on media monitoring, and on media education.

Marta Dyczok is associate professor at the Departments of History and Political Science, Western University; a Fellow at the University of Toronto’s Munk School of Global Affairs; and an adjunct professor at the National University of the Kyiv–Mohyla Academy. Her recent books include Ukraine’s Euromaidan: Broadcasting through Information Wars with Hromadske Radio (E-IR, 2016), *Ukraine Twenty Georgiy Kasianov is head of the Contemporary History and Politics Department at the Institute of the History of Ukraine, National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine. His main areas of expertise are the history of Ukraine in the nineteenth to twenty-first centuries, the history of ideas and political theories, memory studies, and education policy. He is the author, co-author, editor, or co-editor of more than two dozen books on these topics in Ukraine and abroad. He has studied and taught internationally in Germany, Poland, Lithuania, the United States, Canada, Finland, Switzerland, the UK, Japan, Australia, the Czech Republic, Hungary, and Finland. His most recent monograph, Memory Crash: Politics of History in and around Ukraine (1980s–2010s), is forthcoming from CEU Press in 2021.

Hennadii Korzhov is associate professor in the Department of Sociology, Igor Sikorsky Kyiv Polytechnic Institute, and a fellow of various research institutions in the UK, United States, Germany, Poland, and Ukraine. The author of numerous articles on social transformation in the post-Soviet region and co-author of the book University Teachers: A Sociological Portrait (Donetsk, 2001), Hennadii studies socioeconomic and cultural aspects of the transformation in Eastern Europe, relations between culture and economy, and value attitudes and identity changes in contemporary societies.

Serhiy Kudelia is associate professor of political science at Baylor University, where he teaches courses on ethnopolitical conflicts, terrorism, state-building, political regimes, and Russian politics. Earlier he held teaching and research positions at George Washington University, Johns Hopkins University, the University of Toronto, and the National University of Kyiv–Mohyla Academy. His research on Ukrainian politics and the armed conflict in the Donbas has been published in Nationalities Papers, Comparative Politics, and Post-Soviet Affairs.
Pavlo Kutuev, professor of sociology and chair of the Sociology Department at Igor Sikorsky Kyiv Polytechnic Institute, is a well-known sociologist and political scholar who researches modernization, the historical sociology of the developmental state, and the comparative politics of postcommunist states. The author of three books and numerous articles on sociology, comparative politics, and the history of social thought, he has over twenty years of teaching and research experience in Ukraine, the United States, the UK, Austria, and Japan.

Olena Martynyuk, a Petro Jacyk Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Ukrainian Studies at the Harriman Institute of Columbia University, is an art historian with an interest in art theory and art philosophy. Her research focuses on Ukrainian and Russian art from the late twentieth century to the present. Previously, she was a Fulbright Junior Research Fellow and a recipient of the Louise Bevier Dissertation Fellowship and Andrew Mellon Travel Research Award. She taught art history classes at Rutgers University and CUNY College of Staten Island, and curated exhibitions at the Zimmerli Art Museum, the Ukrainian Museum, and the Ukrainian Institute of America in New York City.

Oksana Mikheieva is professor of sociology at the Ukrainian Catholic University and a member of the International Association for the Humanities and the Ukrainian Sociological Association; she also serves on the editorial board of Ukraina moderna journal. She has over twenty years of research and teaching experience. Author or co-author of five books and many articles, she researches a wide range of areas, including the historical aspects of deviant and delinquent behavior, urban studies, paramilitary motivations, the social integration and adaptation of internally displaced persons, resettlement strategies, and the adaptation of the last wave’s Ukrainian migrants.

Mykhailo Minakov, senior adviser at the Kennan Institute of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, is a philosopher and social scholar working in the areas of political philosophy, political theory, and the history of modernity. Author or co-author of ten books and numerous articles on philosophy, political analysis, and policy studies, he has over twenty years of experience in research and teaching in Ukraine, Germany, Switzerland, and the United States. As editor-in-chief, he also runs the peer-reviewed Ideology and Politics Journal and the Kennan Institute blog Focus Ukraine.

Tymofiy Mylovanov is president of the Kyiv School of Economics and an associate professor of economics at the University of Pittsburgh. During his professional career, he has taught at European and American universities, including Rheinische Friedrich-Wilhelms-Universität Bonn and the University of Pennsylvania. In 2019–2020, Mylovanov was minister of economic development, trade and agriculture of Ukraine. His research interests cover such areas as game theory and contracts, as well as institutional design. His articles on these topics have been published in leading international academic magazines, including Econometrica, the American Economic Review, and the Review of Economic Studies.

Andrian Prokip is a senior associate at the Kennan Institute of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars and an energy expert at the Ukrainian Institute for the Future. Author of four books and many articles and reports on energy policy, with a focus on sustainability, he has more than ten years’ experience teaching and conducting research in Ukraine and the United States.

Matthew Rojansky is director of the Kennan Institute of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington, D.C. An expert on U.S. relations with the states of the former Soviet Union, especially Russia, Ukraine, and Belarus, he has advised governments, intergovernmental organizations, and major private actors on conflict resolution and efforts to enhance shared security throughout the Euro-Atlantic and Eurasian region. He is also an adjunct professor at Johns Hopkins SAIS and serves as U.S. executive secretary for the Dartmouth Conference, a track two U.S.-Russian conflict resolution initiative begun in 1960. Rojansky is frequently interviewed on TV and radio, and his writing has appeared in the New York Times, the Washington Post, and Foreign Policy. He holds an A.B. degree from Harvard College and a J.D. from Stanford Law School.

Oxana Shevel is associate professor of political science at Tufts University. Her current research projects examine the sources of citizenship policies in postcommunist states, church-state relations in Ukraine, and the origins of the separatist conflict in the Donbas. She is the author of the award-winning book Migration, Refugee Policy, and State Building in Postcommunist Europe (Cambridge University Press, 2011). She has also published numerous scholarly articles and book chapters. She currently serves as president of the American Association for Ukrainian Studies and as vice president of the Association for the Study of Nationalities. She is also a country expert on Ukraine for the Global Citizenship Observatory, a member of the PONARS Eurasia scholarly network, and an associate at the Harvard Ukrainian Research Institute and the Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies at Harvard University.

Ilona Sologoub is the CEO of Vox Ukraine. Prior to assuming her current position, she was policy research director at the Kyiv School of Economics. She has multiple publications on economic policy and reforms in Ukraine and more than fifteen years of experience working as an economic analyst in the public and private sectors and for nongovernmental organizations.

Maksym Yenin, associate professor of sociology at the Igor Sikorsky Kyiv Polytechnic Institute, is a well-known Ukrainian sociologist researching post-Soviet elites, the ideological transformation of modern societies, higher education reform, the value orientations of Ukrainian youth, and the phenomenon of war in sociopolitical and academic discourse. He is co-author of the book Improving the Ways of Human Capital Development as an Increasing Factor of Mobilization Potential of Ukraine (Kherson, Ukraine: Helvetica, 2020).

Yuliya Yurchenko is senior lecturer in political economy at the Political Economy, Governance, Finance and Accountability Institute and in the International Business and Economics Department, the University of Greenwich (UK). Her research focuses on state/society/capital complexes and transnational class formation, and on the political economy of post-Soviet nations. She is the author of Ukraine and the Empire of Capital: From Marketisation to Armed Conflict (London: Pluto Press, 2018) and many publications in Capital and Class and New Political Economy. She is vice-chair of the Critical Political Economy Research Network Board, co-coordinator of the World Economy working group, IIPPE, and an editor for Capital and Class.
abstract art, 215

Academy of Cold exhibition (1998), 224, 224n23

Afanasiev, Maks & Olena, 224–25

government
food insecurity, 126; land privatization and, 83–84; privatization of, 71, 80; subsidies, 61–62

Akhmetov, Rinat
art and, 230; energy sector and, 144, 147, 148, 154; Kryvorizhstal privatization and, 39n5; political development and, 24, 27; social inequality and, 97, 102, 103, 107; wealth of, 128

The Alchemic Surrender exhibition (1994), 221–22

All-Ukrainian Council of Churches and Religious Organizations (AUCCRO), 270

All-Ukrainian Festival of Cultural Heroes (2002), 228

All-Ukrainian Union of Churches of Evangelical Christian-Baptists, 270

All-Union Youth Exhibition (1987), 209, 209n2

Andrukhovych, Sofia
Felix Austria, 235

Andrukhovych, Yuri, 218n12

Andrushko, Serhiy, 191, 196

Arbuzov, Serhiy, 190

Arcelor Mittal, 104n2

Arel, D., 287

Ariev, Volodymyr, 188

art and artists, 5, 207–43; carnivalesque themes, 222–27; censorship and, 235–37; contemporary art in search of audience, 230–33; decommunization and, 239–41; discrimination themes, 235–37; feminism and, 235–37; gallery movement, 227–30; identity awareness and, 233–35; LGBTQ themes, 235–37; new media explored, 216–22; perestroika painting, 208–16; postmedia painting, 227–30; remembrance explored through, 239–41; trauma explored through, 237–39; war themes, 237–39. See also specific artists

Art in Space exhibition (1993), 217

Association of Jewish Religious Organizations of Ukraine, 270

Atelier Kara Gallery (Kyiv), 228

AUCCRO (All-Ukrainian Council of Churches and Religious Organizations), 270

Azarov, Mykola, 22, 46, 97, 102
Bakai, Ihor, 155
Bandera, Stepan, 42
banking sector, 85–88, 87f
bankruptcy law, 99
Baptists, 255, 267
Bartholomew, Patriarch, 274
BBC, 172
Beaino, Roger, 190
Blank Art Gallery (Kyiv), 228
Bleich, Yakov Dov, 270
Blue Stream pipeline, 162
Bohdan, Andriy, 196
Boholyubov, Hennadii, 107, 108, 128
Bourdieu, Pierre, 169–70
Boyko, Yurii, 97, 102
Brand Ukrainian exhibition (2001), 226
Bratkov, Sergey, 222; Bedtime Stories, 223
Bruegel the Elder, Pieter, 211
Bu-Ba-Bu (artists group), 218, 218n12
Burliuk, David, 226
Burmahin, O., 196
Business Press of Ukraine LLC, 190
Bystrogo Reagirovania [Rapid Response] (artists group), 220, 222, 223
Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies, 304n8
Capital (newspaper), 190
carnivalesque art, 222–27
censorship of art, 235–37; of media, 178, 180–81, 183, 186, 188, 198
Center for Contemporary Art, 231, 231n33, 236, 237
Central Election Commission, 325, 330, 332
Central European Media Enterprises, 185
“chanson-art” style, 225, 234
Charter 4 group, 182
Chechetov, Mykhailo, 103
checkbook journalism, 186
Chekorsky, Vadim Empire of Passion (with Kulchynsky), 224
Chepelyk, Oksana Chronicles of Fortinbras (with Zabuzhko), 236
Chichkan, Ilya, 221–22, 225; Atomic Love, 225; Sleeping Princes, 222
Chornobyl nuclear disaster (1986), 208, 225–26
Chornovil, Vyacheslav, 21, 173
Chubai, Hryhory, 218n12
Chubai, Taras, 218, 218n12 citizen-state relations, 28–34, 32t, 41–42 civil service reforms, 64–65
civil society democratic development and, 2, 339–41, 340f; Orange Revolution and, 36; political development and, 11–12; private sector development and, 53, 57 class divisions and social inequality, 4, 95–130; the poor, 108–13, 111f, 123–29, 127–28f; public opinion on post-1991 reforms, 113–23, 114f, 116f, 118t, 119f, 120t, 122f; the rich, 100–108, 105–7f; Soviet modernity’s failure and, 96–100. See also social welfare corruption

criminal-political nexus and, 101, 109; democratic development and, 336–39; in energy sector, 146–48; Orange Revolution and, 39; political development and, 10, 19; private sector development and, 58; in public sector, 43; revolutionary cycles and, 43

Corruption Perceptions Index, 336–37, 338

COVID-19 pandemic, 95–96, 272–73

Crimea political history of, 44–45; Russian annexation of, 27, 46–48, 191–92, 238–39, 333

Crimean Diaspora (NGO), 126

Crimea State Emergency Service, 126
criminal-political nexus, 101, 109

Cultural Contact Zones project, 304n8

Cultural Project, 233
decomunization art and, 239–41; democratic development and, 1–2

Deep and Comprehensive Free Trade Area (DCFTA), 80, 123–24

corruption

criminal-political nexus

Committee of Journalistic Ethics, 182

Committee on Legislative Support of Law Enforcement, 30

Committee to Protect Journalists, 178

Communist Party
democratic development and, 327, 333; inequality and, 97; Kravchuk and, 19; media and, 169; private sector development and, 56; religion and, 249

constitutional development, 323–27

Constitutional Court, 286

consumerism, 285–86, 285n2, 288

consumption data, 137–41, 138–39f, 162; corruption in, 147; miners strike (1993), 14, 20; ownership and control, 144; production data, 141–42; reforms, 154–55. See also energy sector

Collegiate Assessor [Kolezkyi Asesor] (band), 210, 210n4

Committee of Journalistic Ethics, 182

Committee on Legislative Support of Law Enforcement, 30

Committee to Protect Journalists, 178

Communist Party
democratic development and, 327, 333; inequality and, 97; Kravchuk and, 19; media and, 169; private sector development and, 56; religion and, 249

constitutional development, 323–27

Construction Bank, 85

constructivism, 285–86, 285n2, 288 democratic development, 6, 321–47; civil society and, 339–41, 340f; constitutional development, 323–27; corruption and, 336–39; economic development and, 336–39; electoral system, 327–32; external influences, 344–46; pluralism and, 341–44; political parties and, 327–32; revolutionary cycles and, 332–36; social security and, 336–39; “Western” model of, 1–2. See also political development

Den (newspaper), 178
DE NE DE initiative, 240–41, 242
Derkach, Leonid, 22
Diamond, Larry, 322
discrimination themes in art, 235–37
Disputed Territory exhibition (2012), 234
DonKult project, 237
Dreamcatcher (festival), 226
DTEK Group, 144, 147, 148
Dzerkalo Tyzhnia (newspaper), 178
Dzyga Gallery (Lviv), 228

EBRD (European Bank for Reconstruction and Development), 100, 107–8
EBU (Evangelical Baptist Union), 262–64, 263t

economic development
democratic development and, 336–39; energy dependence and, 62–63; policy mistakes, 59–62, 60f; private sector and, 56–65; restructuring of economy, 59 education labor market and, 64; private sector development and, 80 electoral system citizen-state relations and, 31–32; democratic development, 327–32; fraud in, 22, 25, 33; participation rates in elections, 32–33, 32t electricity market reforms, 158–59, 162 employment services, 30
Energoatom, 144
Epifanyi, Archbishop, 274, 276
Erdoğan, Recep Tayyip, 276
ethnolinguistic identities in Donbas, 46; political development and, 12–13, 21; protest movements based on, 40; religion and, 258–61, 261f. See also national identity

Eural Trans Gas, 147

Euromaidan. See Revolution of Dignity

European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD), 100, 107–8

European Broadcasting Union, 173

European Court of Human Rights, 334–35

European Neighborhood Policy, 40

European Social Survey, 252

European Union
   Deep and Comprehensive Free Trade Area (DCFTA), 80, 123–24; democratic development in Ukraine and, 344; Ukraine's integration with, 25, 40

EU-Ukraine Association Agreement democratic development and, 325, 330, 333, 345, 346; energy sector and, 157, 159; media and, 198; political development and, 41; social inequality and, 124, 125

European Values Survey, 252

evangelical Protestants, 255

exchange rate, 60, 60f, 85–86, 96

Exhibition Defloration (1990), 217

extrajudicial detentions, 30

far right movements, 42

Fatherland (political party), 328–29

FDI (foreign direct investment), 74

feminist art, 235–37

Feminist Ofenzyva, 236

Filaret, Metropolitan, 274–75, 276n3

First Ukrainian Project exhibition (2001), 226

Firtash, Dmytro, 26, 103, 144, 194

Fokin, Vitold, 20

food insecurity, 126

foreign direct investment (FDI), 74

Foundation for the Development of Ukraine, 230

Freedom Party, 329

free economic zones, 61

Fuksman, Borys, 185

Futurism, 225, 225n24

gas. See natural gas industry

Gas Transmission System
   Operator of Ukraine (GTSOU), 158, 164

Gatskova, Ksenia, 254

Gazprom, 142–43, 147, 149–53, 155, 163–64

Guelman, Marat, 180, 228

German Evangelical Lutheran Church of Ukraine, 270

Gladkosten, Illia, 240

glasnost policy, 292

globalization, 96–97, 171

Gogol, Mykola, 210n4
Gongadze, Heorhiy, 23, 35, 179, 182, 189
Gorbachev, Mikhail, 13–14, 170, 175, 208, 292
Gosbank, 85
grassroots enterprises, 55, 76–81, 78–79t
Group DF, 108
Groysman, Volodymyr, 28
GTSOU (Gas Transmission System Operator of Ukraine), 158, 164
Guelman Gallery, 228, 230
Gumenyuk, Natalya, 191
Haiduk, Vitaliy, 26
Hammerman Destroying Viruses (musical collective), 225
Harasymiv, Bohdan
Post-Communist Ukraine, 2
Harley Trading Limited, 185
health care, 64
Henie Onstad Kunstsenter (Oslo), 227
Hereha, Oleksandr & Halyna, 128
Herfindahl-Hirschman index, 266
High Anti-Corruption Court, 338
Hnylytska, Ksenia, 231
Hnylytskyj, Oleksander, 225; Laodicea’s Call, 213; “Oliva Seeds,” 212
Holosiy, Oleg, 216, 220; Yellow Room, 212
Honchar, Olga, 240–41
Horbulin, Volodymyr, 175, 186 housing privatization, 81–83, 82f
Hromadske Television, 191, 340
Hudrada (art collective), 234 human capital, 64–65. See also labor market
Huzhva, Ihor, 190
ICTV, 172, 176, 186
identity. See ethnolinguistic identities; national identity IDPs (internally displaced persons), 311–12
IDP Ukraine, 304n8
IMF. See International Monetary Fund impeachment mechanism, 15
Independent Journalist Union, 182
Industrial Union of Donbas (ISD), 103, 105–7, 106–7f, 147 inequality. See class divisions and social inequality inflation, 60, 86, 96, 108–9, 125, 172 informal privatization, 172
Information Resistance (group), 194 infrastructure investments, 96 insecurity theory and religion, 257–59, 259f
Institute for Economic Research and Policy Consulting, 73
Institute of Mass Information, 184
Institute of National Memory, 343
Institute of Religious Freedom, 270
Institute of Sociology of National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine (IS NASU), 30, 117, 126–27, 252, 294

institutional framework, 13–19; citizen-state relations and, 29–30; democratic development and, 324–25; Orange Revolution and, 38–39; political development and, 10; private sector development and, 57

Institution of Unstable Thoughts
Visual Vinyl, 225

INTER (company), 176, 177, 185, 194

Internal Displacement Monitoring Centre, 126

internally displaced persons (IDPs), 311–12

International Monetary Fund (IMF) economic policy reforms and, 98–99, 100, 107–8, 129, 345; energy sector loans from, 150; privatization process in Ukraine and, 66, 75

International Social Survey Programme, 113–14, 118, 254

Internews, 172, 176

Interpipe Group, 23, 103, 105–7, 106–7f, 108

Intervals exhibition (2000), 227

Invitation to the Discussion exhibition (1987), 211

Irvanets, Oleksandr, 218n12

ISD. See Industrial Union of Donbas

Isupov, Ilya, 225

Itera, 147

IT industry, 79

Jews, 255, 267–68, 269–70, 342

Jehovah’s Witnesses, 267

judiciary dependence, 31, 63, 64f

Kadan, Nikita, 231, 241

Kadyrova, Zhanna, 231; The Market, 232

Kakhidze, Alevtina
Phone Calls from the Cemetery. Recital/Listening, 237–38

Kaufman, Vlodko, 211;
Letters to the Earth Dwellers, or the Eighth Seal, 218

Kharkiv Academy of Contemporary Art, 233

Kharkiv school of conceptual photography, 210, 220–21, 232

Khoroshkovsky, Valeriy, 26, 185, 186

Khrushchev, Nikita, 290

Kirpa, Georgiy, 39n5

Klitchko, Vitaly, 329

Klyuyev, Andriy, 46, 148

Kniazhytskyi, Mykola, 177, 189

Kolesnikov, Borys, 102

Kolenky Asesor [Collegiate Assessor] (band), 210, 210n4
Kolomoisky, Ihor
energy sector and, 144, 146; media and, 185, 186, 188; political development and, 20, 27, 28; social inequality and, 107, 108; wealth of, 128

Komu Vnyz [Who Needs to Go Down?] (band), 210, 211n4

korenizatsiya policy, 289

Korydor (online magazine), 233

Kostyrko, Vlodko, 229n32, 235; Galicia and Ukraine, 229

Kosyuk, Yuriy, 128

Kravchuk, Leonid
citizen-state relations and, 31; democratic development and, 323; election of, 14; media and, 170–74; political career, 19–21; social inequality and, 100

Krytyka Polityczna (journal), 237

Kryvenko, Mykola, 215

Kryvolap, Anatoly, 215

Kryvorizhstal (company), 23, 39n5, 72, 73

Kuchma, Leonid
art and, 227; citizen-state relations and, 31; Crimea and, 45; democratic development and, 323, 328, 332–33; election of, 16; institutional framework and, 14–17, 19; media and, 173, 174–83; political career, 20, 21–25; Russia-Ukrainian gas relationship and, 148–49; social inequality and, 97, 100, 102–3; Unfulfilled Revolution and, 35–36

“Kuchmagate,” 23, 179, 189

Kulchytsky, Myroslav
Empire of Passion (with Chekorsky), 224

Kulyk, Zynoviy, 173, 175

Kulykov, Andriy, 178

Kuzma, Marta, 221–22, 221n19

Kuznetsov, Volodymyr, 231; Koliyivshchyna: Judgement Day, 236

Kyiv Academy of Media Arts, 233

Kyiv Art Academy, 227n27

Kyiv International Institute of Sociology, 29–30, 95

Kyiv International Media Art Festival, 226

Kyiv School of Visual Communication, 233

Kyiv State Fine Art Institute, 210

labor market
employment services, 30; private sector development and, 64–65, 80; religious revival and, 258–59, 259f; social inequality and, 108–9

labor migration, 112

land privatization, 83–85

Landyk, Volodymyr, 189

Language Maidan protests (2012), 40

Lauder, Ronald, 176, 185

Lazarenko, Pavlo, 22, 25, 97, 155, 155n4

lease-to-own schemes, 68

Lenin, Vladimir, 217
Leshchenko, Serhiy, 188
LGBTQ themes in art, 235–37
Liovochkin, Serhiy, 26, 194
London, Barbara, 224n23
Lutsenko, Yuriy, 108, 333
Lysychansk Local History Museum, 241

Magocsi, Paul Robert
   A History of Ukraine, 2
Maidan Nezalezhnosti (Independence Square), 34, 36
Makov, Palvo
   UtopiA. Chronicles, 220
Maria Snizhna Cathedral (Lviv), 211
Martynenko, Oleksandr, 195
Marx, Karl, 217
Masoch Fund (art collective), 217;
   Meet the Father!, 226
Matsenko, Mykola 221, 229
media, 5, 169–99;
   democratic development and, 340; during Kravchuk’s presidency, 170–74; during Kuchma’s first term, 174–79; during Kuchma’s second term, 179–83; during
   Poroshenko’s presidency, 191–95; privatization of,
   172, 193–94; during
   Yanukovych’s presidency, 187–91; during Yushchenko’s presidency, 183–87; during Zelensky’s presidency, 196–98. See also specific organizations
Medical Hermeneutics (artists group), 218n13
Medusa’s Mouth exhibition (1995), 236
Medvedchuk, Viktor, 20, 24,
   180, 185, 194, 345
Melamid, Alexander, 213n7
Mendel, Iuliia, 196
Meshkov, Yuriy, 45
Metinvest Group, 154
Mikhailov, Boris, 220–21,
   221n18, 222;
   Case Study, 220, 221; Next to the Earth, 220; Twilight, 220
Minin, Roman
   Plan of Escape from the Donetsk Region, 235
Minsk Protocol (2014), 47
Modern Art Research Institute, 207
Mogilevich, Semion, 103
Mormons, 267
Moroz, Oleksandr, 35, 179
Moscow Conceptualism style, 212, 213
Muchnyk, Leonid Insurgent Sailors of Potyomkin Bringing the Body of the Fallen Grigoriy
   Vakulenchuk, 224
Multimedia Invest Group, 190, 194
Municipal Art Gallery (Kharkiv), 228
Muslims, 255, 267, 269, 270, 342
Mystetskyi Arsenal, 236
Naftogaz, 23, 143–45, 150–53,
   157–58, 163–64
Nakonechna, Lada, 231
National Academy of Visual Arts and Architecture, 210n3
National Agency for Prevention of Corruption (NAPC), 338
National Anti-Corruption Bureau (NABU), 337–38
National Art Museum of Ukraine, 212, 227
National Bank of Ukraine (NBU), 59–60, 60f, 86
National Council of Television and Radio Broadcasting, 194 national identity, 6, 283–315; art and, 233–35; Euromaidan and, 310–12; from perestroika to emergence of Ukrainian citizen, 292–98, 295f, 297f; qualitative framework, 298–312; Soviet legacy on national self-identification, 289–91; studies of, 283–89; Ukrainian identities in crisis and war, 298–303, 300f, 302f
National Public Broadcasting Company of Ukraine, 193
National Regulatory Commission on Energy and Utilities, 157
National Salvation Forum, 35
National State Television and Radio Company of Ukraine (NTRCU), 184, 193
National University of Kyiv-Mohyla Academy, 231, 231n33, 236
NATO, 25, 40, 346
natural gas industry consumption data, 137–41, 138–39f; corruption in, 147; economic development and, 62–63; ownership and control, 143–44; production data, 141; reforms, 157–58; subsidies, 145–46, 157. See also energy sector
Nayyiem, Mustafa, 188, 191
NBU. See National Bank of Ukraine neo-baroque style, 212
Neo-Expressionism, 212, 213, 224, 241
Nikopol Plant, 23, 72, 186
nomadism, 226
nonconformist art, 210
Nord Stream 1 pipeline, 162, 163
Nord Stream 2 pipeline, 162–64
Novyi Kanal (TV broadcaster), 176, 182, 186
Novynsky, Vadym, 128
NTRCU (National State Television and Radio Company of Ukraine), 184, 193 nuclear energy consumption data, 137–41, 138–39f; ownership and control, 144; production data, 141; reforms, 159
OCU. See Orthodox Church of Ukraine offshore companies, 57, 99 oil industry consumption data, 137–41, 138–39f, 162; corruption in, 146–47; ownership and control, 144; reforms, 159. See also energy sector

oligarchies
citizen-state relations and, 29, 32; democratic development and, 2, 326, 332, 335; energy sector and, 143–44, 146–48; media and, 174–75, 180, 189, 195; political development and, 20, 24–25, 26; privatization process and, 66–67; social inequality and, 101–8, 128–29. See also specific individuals
Onuch, Jerzy, 216, 226, 226n26
Open Group
Synonym for “Wait,” 239

Opposition Platform—For Life (political party), 194, 345

art and, 208, 230–35; citizen-state relations and, 30; democratic development and, 323, 332–33; media and, 179, 183; political development and, 12, 25, 34, 36–40; privatization process and, 73; Russia-Ukrainian gas relationship and, 149–50
Oranta (insurance company), 73
Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists (OUN), 42 organized crime, 29, 41, 41n7, 189–90
Orthodox Church of Ukraine (OCU), 6, 255, 256, 270, 272–73, 276, 342n2
ORT TV, 176
Ost, D., 223n21
Ostrovksa, Olesia, 236
OUN (Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists), 42

Ours exhibition (2002), 228
Our Ukraine (political party), 184, 328–29

Painterly Preserve, 215, 215n10
Parfan, Nadia, 240
Paris Commune (Kyiv), 212, 216, 218–19, 218n13, 224, 242 parliament
citizen-state relations and, 32; institutional framework and, 14–16; private sector development and, 56, 71–72

Party of Regions
democratic development and, 328, 329, 333, 345; energy sector and, 147; political development and, 17, 18, 24, 25, 46; social inequality and, 101
Path [Shliakh] (artists group), 211, 229 patronage networks, 10, 32, 327
pensions, 64
Pentecostals, 255, 267, 269
perestroika
art and, 208–16; national identity and, 292–98, 295f, 297f
Pereyaslav Agreement (1654), 214, 214n9
Pinchuk, Viktor, 23, 39n5, 103, 107, 128, 176, 186, 189; Farewell to Arms, 230; First Collection, 230

PinchukArtCentre, 230

pipelines, 63, 162–64. See also transit and refining operations; specific pipelines

PislaMova (TV program), 177, 178

Piven, Mertvy, 211

Plach Yeremiy (band), 218n12

Plato, 219

Plokhy, Serhiy

The Gates of Europe: A History of Ukraine, 2 pluralism

citizen-state relations and, 29; democratic development and, 341–44; religious, 266, 267–70

Pluzhnikov, Ihor, 176, 185

“pocket” banks, 86

Polataiko, Taras

Kyiv Classical, 233

police

antipolice protests, 40–41; citizen-state relations and, 30 political development, 3, 9–48; actors and campaigns, 19–28; challenges to statehood, 44–48; citizen-state relations, 28–34, 32t; institutional framework, 13–19; obstacles to, 10–13; revolutionary spirit and, 34–43; virtual vs. real politics, 33–34. See also democratic development

political parties

citizen-state relations and, 33; democratic development and, 327–32; ethnonational conflict and, 12. See also specific political parties

Ponzi schemes, 86

Poroshenko, Petro

citizen-state relations and, 31, 43; democratic development and, 325, 329, 338, 339; election of, 18; energy sector reforms and, 157–61; media and, 182–83, 186, 191–95; political career, 26, 27–28; political development and, 25; religion and, 274; wealth of, 128

PostAnaesthesia exhibition (1992–1993), 219

postmedia painting, 227–30

Pravda (newspaper), 210

Presidential Administration 205

primordialism, 285, 285n2, 313

Priority Development Areas, 102

PrivatBank, 86, 88
private sector, 4, 53–89; banking sector and, 85–88, 87f; barriers to development of, 56–58; economic context, 58–65; energy dependence and, 62–63; grassroots enterprises, 55, 76–81, 78–79f; housing privatization and, 81–83, 82f; human capital and, 64–65; judiciary dependence and, 63, 64f; land privatization and, 83–85; policy mistakes and, 59–62, 60f; privatization process, 65–76, 69t, 74–75t, 81–85; restructuring of economy and, 59; Soviet economic legacy and, 53–55

PrivatGroup, 103, 105–7, 106–7f, 108, 144, 146

privatization process, 65–76, 69t, 74–75t, 81–85; citizen-state relations and, 29; media, 172, 193–94

propaganda
art and, 238; media and, 193, 198; national identity and, 284; Russian and Soviet, 5, 193, 198, 213

property rights, 54, 55, 57, 63, 65; inequality and, 97

Prostory (online magazine), 233

Protestants, 255, 256, 262–64, 263t, 342

protest movements, 40. See also revolutionary cycles

Prozorov, Sergey, 208

Prutyla, Olena, 182

Pryamyi Kanal (TV broadcaster), 195

The Psychedelic Invasion of the Battleship Potyomkin into Sergei Eisenstein’s Tautological Hallucinosis (film), 224

public opinion
on class divisions and social inequality, 113–23, 114f, 116t, 118t, 119f, 120t, 122f; on corruption in public sector, 43

Pukach, Oleksii, 189

Pustovoitentko, Valeriy, 21–22

Putin, Vladimir, 180, 187, 194

Rabinovych, Vadym, 176

Radical Party, 330

Radio Vesti, 190, 194

Radynsky, Oleksiy, 237, 239

Ralko, Vlada
Chinese Erotic Diary, 229

Rapid Response [Bystrogo Reagirovania] (artists group), 220, 222, 223

Rayevsky, Valentyn, 211, 226, 227

Razumkov, Olevsander, 175

Razumkov Center, 253, 254
religion, 5–6, 249–77;
church service attendance,
254, 254t; Communist Party and, 249; COVID-19
pandemic and, 272–73;
ethnolinguistic issues and,
258–61, 261f; generational replacement and, 258;
insecurity theory and, 257–
59, 259f; nation building process and, 259–61, 270–
72, 272t; pluralism, 266,
267–70; revivals in, 249–50, 256–61; socioeconomic modernization and, 257–59;
supply-side theory and, 261–67, 263t, 277. See also specific religious groups

Rembrandt
The Return of the Prodigal
Son, 214

remembrance themes in art, 239–41

remittances, 113

renewable energy, 148. See also energy sector

rent seeking, 10, 146–48

R.E.P. (Revolutionary Experimental Space) group, 231

Reporters Without Borders, 187

Resolute Edge of National Post-
Eclecticism (artists group),
213–14, 215, 216, 218n13,
242

Reunov, Kostiantyn, 213;
Chicken-Kiev, 214n8;
Victors Are Not Judged.
From the Great Ukrainian
People to the Great Russian People, 214

revolutionary cycles
democratic development
and, 332–36; institutional framework and, 19; political development and, 34–43.
See also specific revolutions

Revolution of Dignity
(Euromaidan 2013–2014),
34, 40–42; art and, 239–41;
civil society and, 339–40;
democratic development
and, 322, 324, 334; media and, 191; national identity and, 310–12; private sector
development and, 56, 80;
social inequality and, 123–
25

Revolution on Granite (1990), 34–35

the rich and social inequality,
100–108, 105–7f

Ridny, Mykola, 231;
Blind Spot (with Zhadan),
238

Right Sector (group), 42

Rodnianskyi, Oleksandr, 176, 178, 185

Roitburd, Oleksandr, 224, 228

RosUkrEnergo, 147, 150

rule of law, 10
Russian-Ukrainian relations
art and, 214, 233–35;
Crimean annexation and,
27, 46–48, 191–92, 238–39;
democratic development
and, 333, 342, 344–45;
economic development
and, 59; in gas industry, 148–53; labor migration
and, 112; media and, 171, 192, 194–95; natural gas industry and, 63, 142–43;
Orange Revolution and, 38,
40; pipelines and, 162–64

Sacher-Masoch, Leopold von
Venus in Furs, 217
Sahaidakovsky, Andriy, 213,
216, 217, 222
SAPs (structural adjustment programs), 99
Savadov, Arsen, 209, 210, 221;
Cleopatra’s Sorrow (with Senchenko), 209–10, 211;
Donbas-Chocolate, 222
SBU (Security Service of Ukraine), 18, 22, 43
SCM (System Capital
Management), 24
SCM Holdings, 103, 105–7, 106–
7f, 147
SDPU. See Social Democratic Party of Ukraine
Sedniv House of Creativity, 210
Self-Reliance Party, 329–30
Senchenko, Georgiy, 209, 210, 211, 221;
Cleopatra’s Sorrow (with Savadov), 209–10, 211;
Sacred Landscape of Peter
Bruegel, 211
Servant of the People Party,
331–32, 334
Seventh-Day Adventist
Churches, 270
SEZs (special economic zones), 61, 99, 102
shadow economy, 58, 84, 97
Shcherbytsky, Volodymyr, 209, 209n1
shell companies, 57
Shevchenko, Andriy, 183, 184
Shevchenko, Taras, 226
Shliakh [Path] (artists group),
211, 229
Shushkevich, Stanislav, 14
Silvashi, Tiberiy, 210, 215,
215n10
Silvestrov, Platon, 217
Siumar, Viktoriia, 184, 188
Skrypin, Roman, 183, 191
Skugareva, Marina, 214;
Vechirniy Kiev, 214n8, 215
Slavutych (ship), 221, 221n19
Snelbecker, David, 67
Social Democratic Party of Ukraine (SDPU), 24, 176, 180, 185
social inequality. See class divisions and social inequality
Socialist Party of Ukraine, 35 social networking, 196
social welfare
citizen-state relations and, 29; democratic development and, 336–39; economic development and, 62; food insecurity and, 126; religion and, 257–59, 259f SOEs. See state-owned enterprises
solar power, 148
Solid TV, 219, 220
Solovyov, Oleksandr, 212, 218, 228
Soros, George, 221
Soros Center for Contemporary
Art, 221, 224, 226, 231n33
SOSka (artists group), 231, 232
Soviet legacy
art and, 242; housing
management, 83;
institutional framework
and, 13, 14; national identity and, 284; national self-identification and, 289–91; private sector and, 53–55
special economic zones (SEZs),
61, 99, 102
SPFU. See State Property Fund of Ukraine
Spiritual Administration of Muslims in the Autonomous Republic of Crimea, 270
Stalin, Joseph, 289
Stanytsia Luhanska Local History Museum, 241
StarLightMedia, 176
State Administrative Office, 72–73
State Bureau of Investigations (SBI), 337–38
state capture, 101
State Committee of Ukraine on Press, 173
state-owned enterprises (SOEs), 53, 76, 99, 103
State Property Fund of Ukraine
(SPFU), 70, 72, 103, 176
State Register of Print Media and News Agencies, 186
STB, 176
Steppes of Europe exhibition
(1993), 216
Stetskiv, Taras, 184
Stockholm Arbitration, 152–53
Stockwell, Stephen, 322
Stop Censorship movement, 188
StopFake project, 194
Story First Communications, 172 structural adjustment programs
(SAPs), 99
Studio 1+1, 176, 177, 178, 185, 188 Stukalova, Kateryna, 219, 226 subsidies
agricultural, 61–62;
economic development
and, 61, 62; energy sector,
145–46, 157
Subtelny, Orest
Ukraine: A History, 2
Surkis, Hryhoriy, 24, 144
Surkis, Ihor, 144
Svoboda (political party), 42
Symonenko, Petro, 22
System Capital Management
(SCM), 24
INDEX 383

Szeemann, Harald, 224n23, 226
Tabachnyk, Dmytro, 175
TanzLaboratorium
  Headless, 234
Taruta, Serhiy, 26, 107
taxation
  economic development and, 60–61, 62; private sector development and,
  77–79, 77n1; social inequality and, 102
Tax Maidan protests (2010), 40
Telekritika (website), 182
temnyky (topic sheets), 180–81
Tenderness exhibition (2003), 236
Terra Futura style, 225
Theater of Displaced People, 237
Tistol, Oleg, 213, 221, 229n30;
  National Geography, 229;
  Reunification, 214
Titushko, Vadim, 41n7
titushky (organized semicriminal street gangs), 41, 41n7, 189–90
Tkachenko, Oleksandr, 172, 177, 178, 188
Tomenko, Mykola, 184
Totem (artists group), 224–25
transavantgarde style, 212, 212n6 transit and refining operations, 142–43, 162–64 trauma themes in art, 237–39
TRK Express Inform (media company), 183
TRK NBM (media company), 183
Troubina, Valeria, 212 trust
  citizens lacking trust in state, 28–34, 32t; religion and, 254
Tsagolov, Vasyl
  Père Lachaise on Karl Marx Street (Shooting of Paris Communards, May 3, 1993), 219, 219n15; World Without Ideas, 219; X-Files, 228
Tsukrenko, Albert, 225
Tupitsyn, Viktor, 220–21
Turchynov, Oleksandr, 27
TurkStream pipeline, 162, 163
Tyhypko, Serhiy, 108, 128
Tymoshenko, Yulia democratic development and, 328–29, 333; energy sector reforms and, 155–56;
institutional framework and, 17–18; media and, 178, 185, 186; Orange Revolution and, 39, 40; political career, 25, 26–27; Russia-Ukrainian gas relationship and, 150; social inequality and, 97, 103–4, 108; Unfulfilled Revolution and, 35

UAOC. See Ukrainian Autocephalous Orthodox Church
UGCC. See Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church
Ujazdów Castle (Warsaw), 216
Ukraine Crisis Media Center, 194, 240
Ukrainian Autocephalous Orthodox Church (UAOC), 255, 262–64, 263t, 268, 269
Ukrainian Bible Society, 270
Ukrainian Body exhibition (2012), 236–37
Ukrainian Catholic University, 304n8
Ukrainian Church of the Christians of the Evangelical Faith-Pentecostal, 270
Ukrainian Diocese of the Armenian Apostolic Church, 270
Ukrainian Free Church of the Christians of the Gospel Faith-Pentecostal, 270
Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church (UGCC), 6, 255, 262–64, 263t, 268–69, 270, 342
Ukrainian Institute of National Remembrance, 35, 240
Ukrainian Media Holding (UMH), 190
Ukrainian National Assembly-Ukrainian People's Self-Defense Organization (UNA-UNSO), 35–36
Ukrainian Orthodox Church-Kyiv Patriarchate (UOC-KP), 6, 255, 260, 262–64, 263t, 269, 270, 276n3, 342n2
Ukrainian Orthodox Church-Moscow Patriarchate (UOC-MP), 6, 255, 256, 259–60, 262–64, 263t, 268, 269, 273
Ukrainian Soviet Union of Artists, 210
Ukrainska Pravda, 182
Ukrugasbank, 88
Ukr-GasVydobuvannya, 144
Ukrhidroenergo, 144
UkrLife TV, 340
Ukrnafta, 144
Ukrrudprom, 72
Ukrtransgaz, 158
Ukrtransnafta, 144, 146
UMH (Ukrainian Media Holding), 190
UNA-UNSO (Ukrainian National Assembly-Ukrainian People's Self-Defense Organization), 35–36
unemployment, 108–9, 112, 125. See also labor market
United Energy Systems of Ukraine, 155
United States
democratic development in Ukraine and, 344; Orange Revolution and, 38; religion in, 262
University of Birmingham, 304n8
University of Oxford, 304n8
UOC-KP. See Ukrainian Orthodox Church-Kyiv Patriarchate
UOC-MP. See Ukrainian Orthodox Church-Moscow Patriarchate utility costs, 96
VCRC (Visual Culture Research Center), 237
Velázquez, Diego
Equestrian Portrait of Prince Balthasar Charles, 209
Velvet Revolution (2000), 34
Veremiyi, Viacheslav, 189–90
Verkhovodova, Lidiia, 68
Vermia (artists group), 220
Vesti (newspaper), 190, 194
Vikna Novyny (TV program), 177
Viktyuk, Roman, 217
Vintoniv, Roman, 191
Visual Culture Research Center (VCRC), 237
Vneshtorgbank, 85
Volyazlovsky, Stanislav, 225; Chanson Art, 234
Von Hagen, Marc
“Does Ukraine Have a History?,” 2 voucher privatization, 66
vydyvo genre of art, 218

war
art influenced by, 237–39; national identity and, 298–303, 300f, 302f wealth and social inequality, 100–108, 105–7f
Who Needs to Go Down? [Komu Vnyz] (band), 210, 211n4
Wilson, Andrew
The Ukrainians: Unexpected Nation, 2
wind energy, 148
Women and War: Everyday Life on the Occupied Territories project, 304n8
Working Ukraine (political party), 23
World Bank, 58n1, 99, 100, 337
World Food Programme, 126

World Values Survey, 252

Yanukovych, Viktor
citizen-state relations and, 31; democratic development and, 324, 328, 329, 333, 338; Donbas region and, 46; election of, 17, 18; energy sector corruption and, 148; energy sector reforms and, 157; institutional framework and, 16–17, 19; media and, 183, 187–91; Orange Revolution and, 36–40; political career, 24, 26–27; political development and, 24; privatization process and, 74; Revolution of Dignity and, 41; social inequality and, 97, 102–3, 107–8, 123–25, 129
Yatsenyuk, Arseniy, 27, 329
Yeltsin, Boris, 14
Yeremiy, Plach, 211
Yevtukhov, Vasyl, 101
Yoffe, Yuliy, 101
Yushchenko, Viktor
citizen-state relations and, 31; democratic development and, 328–29, 332–33, 337; energy sector reforms and, 155; institutional framework and, 16–18; media and, 179, 182, 183–87; Orange Revolution and, 36–39; political career, 23, 25, 26; privatization process and, 73; Russia-Ukrainian gas relationship and, 149–50; social inequality and, 103
Zabuzhko, Oksana
Chronicles of Fortinbras (with Chepelyk), 236
Zakharchenko, Vitaliy, 190
Zalishchuk, Svitlana, 188
Zaporizhstal (company), 72
Zaporozhets, Dmytro, 128

Zelensky, Volodymyr
citizen-state relations and, 31; civil service reforms and, 64–65; democratic development and, 325, 331–32, 334, 339, 342–43, 345–47; election of, 18, 28; energy sector reforms and, 160–61; media and, 196–98; social inequality and, 129

Zhadan, Serhiy
Blind Spot (with Ridny), 238

Zhevaho, Konstantyn, 128
Zhyvotkov, Alexander, 215
Zlochevskyi, Mykola, 144
Zvyahilskyi, Yuhym, 20, 97